Arizona's Outlook In the Year 1859

Horace Greeley's forecast in 859; I have come across a desolate and errible country, desolate and seemigly worthless forever-the great tmerican desert. But I believe that he Almighty has created nothing in vain, and as I passed over this awful region, the thought has fixed itself in my mind that, since it is useless for very other purpose, it may be a land Into Mexico of vast mineral wealth. If that he so, it will take a hundred thousand miners and a hundred thousand years to prospect it."
